Bush Kinder

Our 4-Year-Old Kindergarten program participates in Bush Kinder at Stoney Creek Reserve once a fortnight during School Term.

Bush Kinder is an outdoor education program that provides young children with an opportunity to learn and play in a natural, outdoor setting, usually in a forest or wooded area.

In a Bush Kinder, children engage in various activities that encourage exploration, creativity, and problem-solving, all while being surrounded by the wonders of nature. The approach emphasises hands-on learning experiences and encourages children to interact with their environment in a responsible and sustainable manner.

By incorporating the principles of Bush Kinder, children can experience a unique form of education that promotes holistic development, stimulates curiosity, and nurtures a lifelong love for nature.
